

Sean is in his 26th year of education. He joined the TRHS staff in 2012 as a social studies teacher. He coached multiple sports for 18 years and played baseball at the college level. Sean earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Education with a Minor in Multi-Cultural Studies. He has an MA in Curriculum Design and Technology and Administration. Being an educator is such a rewarding experience where you can see young people grow and become successful contributors in society. When not at work, Sean enjoys the outdoors and spending time with his children, wife Debbie, and their grandson Nolan.
